Jonathan Kempe

Generalist
New Zealand

Summary

Jonathan is an author, entrepreneur, technologist, lecturer, and industry analyst. He has accrued a diverse array of skills over a long and exciting career in small business, large corporates, not-for-profits, and the technology, education, media, and Australian Defence Force sectors. Jonathan speaks and lectures in universities and conferences across the world on a range of topics: Maritime strategy, satellite communications, cybersecurity, and global supply chain trends including transformational technologies and digitisation. Jonathan has contributed to Australian, US and regional strategies for technological integration, supply chain resilience and trade facilitation. He recently co-authored a book on U.S. Maritime strategy that has played a key role in informing senior government decision-makers about present realities and future possibilities.With the scars to prove it, Jonathan is well versed in the complexities - trials, victories, and failures - that founders, business owners and senior decision-makers commonly face. With a passion for generating creative and unique insights, Jonathan loves working alongside like-minded entrepreneurs, and seeks to re-imagine the future through pragmatic and creative ideation
