Summary

I am an investor, and multiple time Founder & CEO of BlackFrost, a deep-tech, frontier physical AI company. The last 10 years of my life has been spent learning the art of business acumen. I certainly have a lot of it but also know I have lot more to learn. The most important thing to know about me is that no matter the occasion I will always wear a black t-shirt, nice blue jeans and cowboy boots. This does two things. One it fools people into underestimating me and two it allows me to be utilitarian and useful in any working situation whether it's outside the office or in, physical or non-physical. Also I'm just not comfortable in a suit. The second most important thing to know about me is I have and will always be fiercely committed to philanthropy. For as long as I've been alive I have given back more than I've received. I used to think this made me weak that this was a flaw in who I am, but today I know it's actually a super power to think of others before yourself. The third most important thing to know about me is I do not care about being well liked. The only thing I care about is execution and results. I have fired fortune 50 executives for misalignment on goals and vision and promoted those with less than ideal backgrounds but have proven they can execute. I do not waver when it comes to execution. That's the one difference between failure and success. Everything else is just a supporting actor. The fourth and final most important thing to know about me. I do not give a damn about credentialism. The human race has God given abilities to do just do things. I have not and will not ever accept someone saying you can't do something because you don't have the experience or the degree. The best way to learn is to do. If you want to know more feel free to message me. I'm an open book.
