Общие сведения

I am a defense journalist, accredited adviser, and consultant specializing in military affairs, defense technology, and security policy. As Editor-in-Chief of Defence Blog, I lead reporting and analysis on global defense issues, with a focus on modern warfare, military innovation, and security developments in Europe and beyond.

Over the years, I have conducted in-depth interviews with senior defense executives, military officials, and policy experts, providing readers with accurate, timely, and insightful reporting. My work combines on-the-ground experience in Ukraine with open-source intelligence (OSINT) analysis and industry knowledge, allowing me to cover complex defense topics with clarity and precision.

I collaborate with international media, defense companies, and research institutions, offering expert commentary and consultancy on military technology trends, procurement programs, and security dynamics.

If you are interested in defense industry insights, collaboration, or expert commentary, feel free to connect.
