Iva Mrvová

Reporter and Researcher on Terrorism and Deradicalization: Field Research in Iraq, Lebanon and Syria. Associate Researcher @ Counter Extremism Project (CEP) | PhD Student at Masaryk University.
Slovakia

Summary

As a journalist and academic, my work centers on the intersection of cultures - particularly between Islamic (MENA) and European societies - and the real-world impacts these interactions create. My research interests include migration, extremism, and terrorism, with a focus on both the challenges and opportunities they present.

I conduct fieldwork in Iraq, Syria, and Lebanon, examining the repatriation of European foreign fighters and exploring pathways for their deradicalization. Insights from my research inform public policy and judicial decisions in EU countries, especially in Slovakia and Germany.

As a journalist, I am passionate about uncovering the value-driven motivations of individuals. This inspired my recent book, published in November 2024, which profiles Slovak personalities whose service to the country sets an example for others.

Driven by curiosity and a commitment to evidence-based impact, I strive to bridge academic research and public debate for a slightly safer and more understanding world.
