Andrea Y.

National Security Policy | Space Security
Arlington, Virginia, United States

Summary

Experienced strategist, policy advisor, and senior executive with over two decades of experience spanning the U.S. Government (Pentagon, National Security Council, and Congress) and private sector consulting.

In my current role at DTSA, I help lead a multidisciplinary team to develop and implement technology security policies while strengthening the United States' ability to advance defense sales with key Allies and partners. My prior role as Senior Advisor to the ASD for Space Policy involved advancing the security of the space domain, testifying before Congress, and navigating organizational transitions. These experiences have honed my skills in leadership, policy analysis, and international relations, enabling me to deliver impactful solutions in high-stakes environments.
