Strategic Simulation Architect | Stress-Testing Corporate & Geopolitical Futures
York, Pennsylvania, United States

Summary

I build worlds to break them.

Before a single dollar is invested, a strategy is deployed, or a life is put on the line, I construct high-fidelity simulations—digital proving grounds where ideas are forged under pressure. My work spans the spectrum of high-stakes decision-making: from modeling the volatile growth of a startup to simulating the complex logistics of post-conflict humanitarian aid.

I deliver these virtual worlds to a network of the sharpest minds I know, inviting them to unleash chaos and find every flaw. It is through this rigorous, collaborative stress-testing that fragile hypotheticals are tempered into resilient, rock-solid strategies.

My simulations do the talking, revealing the future's hidden cracks before they can ever form. If you are a leader who believes in preparing for tomorrow by rigorously dissecting it today, I'm always looking for the next world to build. Let's collaborate.
